

War names recorded

► WE Were There Too, the online portal which records and commemorates the Jewish contribution to life in the UK during the First World War, has compiled a register of memorial board which have been uploaded onto its website.

The boards, which contain the names of Jewish service personnel who were killed during the war give an insight into the vast number of Jews who volunteered to serve their country and made the ultimate sacrifice.

There are currently more than 1,000 names on the register which can be accessed online and where available, additional research has provided further information on the lives of the individuals listed.

■ If anyone knows of any memorial boards that are not listed on its database, visit: Jewstww.uk/memorialboards.php

■ And if anyone has information about First World War memorial boards or any of the names currently listed on the ones that have been recorded, email: Contactus@jewstww.uk